

CURRICULUM VITAE

Hans-Joachim Feuerborn

Family Name: Feuerborn

First Name: Hans-Joachim

Date of Birth: 01.01.1964

Nationality: German

Education: Metallurgy and Material Science at Aachen Technical University, Germany

Experience:

- 1986: research worker at department of binder materials (cement, lime gypsum) at Aachen Technical University
- 1990: chief engineer at department of binder material at Aachen Technical University
- : 1990: consultant in ceramics and binder materials and for reuse of industrial residues
- 2000: adviser for by-products from coal-fired power stations at VGB PowerTech, the European technical association for power and heat generation
- 2000: Technical Officer of ECOBA, European Coal Combustion Products Association
- 2008: Secretary General of ECOBA, European Coal Combustion Products Association

Joachim Feuerborn studied Metallurgy and Material Science at Aachen Technical University. In 1986 he started his scientific work at the University Technical University Aachen on reuse of industrial residues in construction products. From 1990 he worked as chief engineer in the department of binder materials and as consultant in ceramics and binder materials and for reuse of industrial residues.

In 2000 he started his work as adviser for by-products from coal-fired power stations at VGB PowerTech, the European technical association for power and heat generation. Furthermore, he is working as Technical Officer and from 2008 as Secretary General for ECOBA, the European Coal Combustion Products Association. He is members of several European and German standardisation committees.